 Getting Past “Nothing” When you ask your child “What did you do at school today?” You always get the same answer: “Nothing”. Hopefully, you know that your child is doing more than “Nothing”. However, by using the following questions you might get more details about your child’s day and more than “nothing”. www.strongfathers.com				1 What is a shape you have learned about in Math this week?	2 What did you observe in Science class today?	3 If you could be a superhero, who would it be?
